Named To Ohio
Ag Hall Of Fame

John Hyde Dunlap Jr., Williamsport, will be inducted into the Ohio Agricultural Hall of Fame during a breakfast 8:30 a.m. Aug. 27 in the Rhodes Center, Ohio Exposition Center.

A native of Pickaway County, he graduated from Williamsport High School in 1924 and from Ohio State University in 1928.

He has farmed all his life and is the seventh generation of his family to farm in the Scioto River Valley. Dunlap owns or manages 31 farms totaling over 13,000 acres.

He also has a contracting company which specializes in soil conservation practices, building lakes, ponds, levees, terraces and ditches.

He has built 18 ponds on his own farms.

Mr. Dunlap is president of The Dunlap Co., the Woodlyn Grain Co., Dublin Hill Farms, the Atlanta Grain Co., and the executive vice president of Pickaway Farms Inc. and Deercreek Farms Inc.

Mr. Dunlap is a director of the First National Bank, Columbus Production Credit Assn., Pickaway County Airport Authority, Scioto Downs and the Ohio Forestry Assn.

He is chairman of the board of trustees of The Ohio State University, vice chairman of the board of Control Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center at Wooster, director of the Ohio State University Research Foundation.

Mr. Dunlap is chairman of the Harvest Insurance Co., and is a director of Harvest Publishing Co., a subsidiary of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich Inc. which publishes seven farm papers in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri.

He is a member of the Ohio Farm Managers Assn. and the American Farm Managers Assn., the Ohio Farm Bureau, League of Ohio Sportsmen, Ohio Commodores, Masonic Lodge and Shrine Club, Circleville Elks Lodge and the United Methodist Church.

Mass Flu Immunization
Plan Is In Jeopardy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say the program to give swine-flu shots to 215 million Americans this year might not get off the ground because of legal complications facing the vaccine manufacturers.

A threshold problem is how the four vaccine producers would insure themselves against legal claims arising from the $135-million vaccination program, the largest mass immunization program in terms of numbers of persons and speed.

Parke, Davis & Co., the nation's biggest flu-vaccine producer, gave notice Tuesday that its swine-flu liability insurance was being canceled. The company, which represents about 50 per cent of U.S. flu vaccine production capacity, asked the government for reimbursements for any liability claims made by persons who might allege they were hurt by the vaccine.

Spokesmen for two other vaccine producers, Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia and Merck Sharp & Dohme of Rahway, N.J., said Tuesday they have not been able to obtain adequate insurance and that prospects for the manufacture of the vaccine remain uncertain.

The fourth vaccine producer, Merrell-National Laboratories, earlier had threatened to pull out of the program unless the government agrees to indemnify the firm for any damages in connection with the vaccine.

Parke-Davis did not explain why its swine-flu liability was being canceled and would not identify its insurance carrier. Industry sources said insurance companies could not estimate their actuarial risks because a mass immunization of this size has never before been attempted.

The statements by the three producers Tuesday were regarded by federal health officials as the most serious setback yet to face the effort to give most Americans a shot in the arm this year.

Referring to Parke-Davis, Dr. Delano Meriwether, director of the National Influenza Immunization Program, said, "For them to be forced out of production would make it very hard to implement the program."

If the newest problem can't be worked out, he added, "then things may slowly come to a screeching halt."

E. Burke Giblein, chairman of Warner-Lambert Co., the parent of Parke-Davis, wrote President Ford, congressional health leaders and Public Health Service officials that Parke-Davis faced "an impossible situation" by losing its insurance coverage for swine-flu vaccine production on July 1.

In asking the government to replace that liability coverage, Giblein said such a large-scale program made it "highly improbable" that standard vaccination safeguards could be followed in all instances.

"As a result less than full protection from illness, greater side effects than anticipated or even a subsequent unrelated illness may be considered in the minds of some as a basis for a liability suit against the company," he said.

"Such suits would be extremely costly even if successfully defended and could have uncertain outcomes for years."

In a private letter to HEW officials, Giblein suggested the company would be encouraged by a carefully worded opinion from the U.S. attorney general, absolving vaccine manufacturers of liability for injuries over which they had no control.

Public Health Service officials said they plan to ask Congress to approve an indemnification program.

Meriwether said that in addition to

Rezoning Ordinance Held
For Final Reading July 6

With only four members present Tuesday, Circleville Council was unable to pass any legislation, including the ordinance rezoning 7.39-acre tract of land in the Morris Road-Atwater Avenue area.

The rezoning legislation will have its third reading at the next meeting of council on July 6. It must be acted on by the members of council at that meeting. The rezoning has been requested by the Joseph Skilkin Co. of Columbus so it may build apartments on the land. Many of the residents of the area are opposed to rezoning from one family residential dwellings to apartments.

Other ordinances read Tuesday and held for the July meeting were:

Appropriation of $500 for Emergency Medical Rescue service expenses;

Appropriation of $150 for burial of indigents;

Authorization for the safety director to advertise for bids for a traffic light at the intersection of Court Street and Ted Lewis Park Entrance.

Young Burglar
Arrested By
Sheriff Radcliff

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff Monday apprehended a 17-year-old Columbus youth who had earlier broken into the Herman Davis residence on the Holderman-Heffner Road in Saltcreek Twp.

The youth had gained entry by breaking out a window. He took a single shot rifle, a pocket watch, ammunition and some money. After a preliminary hearing Tuesday in juvenile court the youth was transferred to the Juvenile Detention Center near Chillicothe.

Sheriff Radcliff said he believes several other burglaries may be cleared up with the apprehension of the youth.

Sheriff Radcliff credited the quick apprehension of the youth to an alert neighbor who had seen the boy a short distance from the house with the rifle. The youth fled on foot through a field when he realized he had been seen but was captured by deputies a couple of miles away on the Jackson Road.

nomenclature of the Emergency Medical team to Emergency Medical Service was approved.

A letter from Circleville Cablevision requesting permission to increase rates was read by Council Clerk Robert Shadley and referred to the finance committee of council.

Council members Tom Wells and Steve Jones are on vacation and were not present for Tuesday's meeting.

Councilman Dixie Watters is still recuperating from a recent heart attack and also was absent.

Members present included David Goldschmidt, David Crawford, Harold Hoffman and John Jenkins. Also present were Shadley, President Joe Bell, city solicitor John Adkins, Safety Director Ed Ebert, Public Utilities Director Charles Taylor, Fire Chief

Flash Floods, Rain
Claims Two Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flash floods took at least two lives as heavy rains inundated Houston and the northern Black Hills of South Dakota. Rain driven by high winds also hit Michigan and central Illinois, but no fatal injuries and only moderate to minor damage were reported.

Houston officials reported 10.47 inches of rain in some places and more than 7½ inches downtown in a seven-hour period beginning about noon Tuesday.

Patricia Wilhoite, 8, drowned in a storm drain two blocks from her Houston home, and the body of an unidentified girl was recovered from a collapsed house in Deadwood, S.D., police said.

Flooding also closed the Astrodome and canceled Tuesday night's Houston Astros-Pittsburgh Pirates baseball game, the first time bad weather stopped an event at the arena in its 11-year history.

Basements of a number of Houston's public buildings were flooded, including several hospitals. One facility lost power for about three hours when floodwaters reached more than six feet in several of its buildings.

At Houston's Contemporary Arts Museum, director James Harithas predicted "catastrophic" losses of art objects as a result of six to eight feet of water in the basement at one time.

Downtown businesses suffered flooding as water standing in the streets washed through the doors.

In central Illinois, authorities said at least two house trailers were knocked off their foundations, while several trees were toppled and some power lines downed in parts of Vermilion, Champaign and Douglas counties, authorities said.

State police Sgt. Robert Riley at Pesotum said high winds knocked down several power lines southeast of Arcola in Douglas County shortly after 6 p.m. One unoccupied trailer was lifted off its foundation blocks.

The frontal system across the nation's midsection that brought the heavy rain and flash flooding also hit portions of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri and Kentucky throughout the day and evening.

A flash flood warning was issued for extreme southeastern Missouri, southern Illinois and western Kentucky.

Heavy thunderstorms caused considerable wind damage over portions of southwestern Michigan. Two injuries were reported at Stevensville, Mich., 21 miles northwest of South Bend, Ind. Damage reports ranged from trees and power lines down to mobile home damage.

It was another hot day for most of California. Readings in the 90s to around 100 were common across the state. The hot spot in the state was shared by a number of locations, with Lemoore, Bakersfield, Palm Springs and Thermal all reporting 106 degrees.

Temperature readings during the evening were generally seasonable, except in southern California where readings were in the 80s and in the northern Rockies into the mid and upper Mississippi Valley, where readings ranged from the low 50s to the mid 60s.

FBI Probes Letter
Bomb Extortions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is trying to determine who tried unsuccessfully to extort millions of dollars from 200 corporations and later apparently mailed 13 bombs to the firms or their executives. One target says the demands did not contain revolutionary rhetoric.

Twelve of the bombs received Monday did not explode, but one did detonate at the Merrill Lynch Inc.

Shoplifters
Apprehended
By Police

Circleville Police Tuesday apprehended an alleged shoplifting gang on information received from Richard Allen, manager of J.C. Penney Co.

Charges of falsification have been filed against three adults and one juvenile, all of whom gave fictitious names to Policemen Bill Pontius and Robert Galer.

Police are also preparing charges of shoplifting, forgery and conspiracy to commit forgery against the four persons. They were tentatively identified today as Robert Carter, 45; Michael Huff, 18, Mabel Lucille Carter, 41, Steve Huff, 16; all of Rutland.

There were also three young children in the car who were placed under the care of Pickaway County Children's Services. Police have not yet confirmed the identity of the man claiming to be Robert Carter.

Mabel Lucille Carter has four previous arrests on shoplifting, and is presently on shock probation according to Sgt. Larry Pontius who is assisting in the investigation.

According to Sgt. Pontius, the children and the two boys do the shoplifting. Then the older couple will take the stolen articles back and ask for a cash refund. Tuesday was their third trip to the local Penney Store within a week, Sgt. Pontius stated.

brokerage in New York, injuring four persons.

An extortion note delivered last October to Beatrice Foods Inc. of Chicago, one of the 200 companies receiving notes, demanded $16 million to be paid over eight or nine months, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

"It was supposed to be paid to someplace in Mexico," the spokesman said in a telephone interview.

Company officials never considered meeting the demand and turned the note over to authorities soon after it was received, he added. Beatrice received a letter bomb Monday.

The spokesman said company officials don't recall the exact content of the threatening letter but believe it contained none of the rhetoric common to the better-known revolutionary organizations.

At a news conference Tuesday, FBI Director Clarence Kelley described the letters as "a terrorist attempt to evoke fear in the hearts of everyone." But he said the FBI doesn't know who is responsible.

"We do not know as yet just what is the genesis of this. It could be a single person or it could be an organization," he continued.

Kelley refused to say whether the extortion demands might be the work of revolutionary political groups. He declined to elaborate on the evidence linking the letter bombs to the extortion demands.

"Over a period of several months," he stated, "numerous large corporations in the United States have received a series of extortion letters wherein demands have been made for large sums of money to be paid with the threat of terrorist tactics unless these demands were met."

The letter bombs "appear to be part of this continuing crime," he added. "They are substantially the same as far as the content and the demands."

Kelley said none of the corporations complied with the extortion demands, which he said totaled "millions of dollars."

Kelley said all 200 recipients of the extortion letters have been warned to expect letter bombs. An FBI spokesman said extortion notes were received by all 13 companies which later were sent mail bombs.

He refused to name the recipients of the letter bombs and the extortion notes. Other officials said bombs were delivered to executives or corporate offices of:

The Bunge Corp. of New York and Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, both grain handling companies; the DuPont Co. of Wilmington, Del.; the Exxon Building in New York; McDonald's Systems Inc. in Oak Brook, Ill.; Marathon Oil Co., Findlay, Ohio; Exxon Pipeline Co., Houston; Procter & Gamble Co., Cincinnati; and the Combined Insurance Co. of America office in Worthington, Ohio, as well as Beatrice Foods and Merrill Lynch.

ROUNDTOWN

KATHRYN Janes, daughter of Mrs. Jerome Wexler, 171 Montclair Ave., will be a featured vocalist Saturday at the Miss Ohio Pageant in Mansfield. She will be singing a Barbara Streisand version of "Great Day."

MAYOR Frank Barnhill secured one of the first tickets to the Kiwanis sponsored Rodeo to be held July 1 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

In securing the ticket, Mayor Barnhill proclaimed July 1 as Kiwanis Rodeo Day and expressed his hopes that the people of Circleville would attend the event.

The Rodeo is sponsored by the Circleville Kiwanis Club to raise funds for the YMCA Building Fund, and other Kiwanis Service Projects.

Publicity Chairman Charles Curlett states that there will be 90 minutes of fun for the entire family, featuring two contests, barrel race and pole bending. There will be two shows, 6 and 8 p.m.

Tickets are available from any Kiwanis member, or at the Pickaway Arms, Jim's Super Duper, Mac's Burger Chef, and at the Veterans Service Office.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in on Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped about a point and a half in the early going, and losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said a tendency toward profit taking was aggravated by an unsettled reaction to the Senate Judiciary Committee's approval Tuesday of a bill to break up the nation's 18 largest oil companies.

Observers generally rate the bill's chances of eventual passage this year as small. But investors nevertheless seemed to have been put on their guard.

General Public Utilities was the early volume leader among NYSE stocks, down 3/8 at 16 1/2 in a 200,000-share block trade.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 5.32 to 985.92, ending a sharp three-session rally.

Losers outpaced gainers by a 4-3 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index lost .23 to 54.04.

Big Board volume was a moderate 18.44 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dipped .08 to 103.23.

Increased Lobby Control Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major attempt in 30 years to increase federal regulation of lobbyists faces attempts in the House to dilute or kill it after the plan won lopsided Senate passage.

Legislation, passed 82 to 9 Tuesday in the Senate, would provide for strict disclosure requirements for the lobbyists who seek to influence legislation or the award of government contracts or grants worth more than $1 million.

The bill would extend lobbying registration and reporting requirements to executive branch activities for the first time in history.

The executive branch was included because of disclosures that certain large aerospace and defense contractors routinely spent large sums entertaining military and civilian officials responsible for contract awards, research, development and procurement.

Common Cause, the public interest group, lobbied for the bill, while Ralph Nader's associates, traditional allies of Common Cause, were vehemently opposed. They say the bill would hit hardest at small, public interest groups with limited resources. They are expected to fight it in the House.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, DConn., floor manager of the bill, said the hearings by his committee revealed that while "10,000 persons may be paid at any one time to engage in lobbying efforts ... under 2,000 of these lobbyists are now actually registered."

These are the major requirements in the Senate bill:

—That an organization register as a lobbyist if it made 12 personal contacts with a member of Congress in any quarter, spent more than $250 to hire a lawyer to lobby for it or spent more than $5,000 on a campaign to have citizens write their congressman.

—That all registered lobbyists file quarterly reports outlining their total lobbying campaign.

—That the reports include major issues in which the organization was interested, all persons in Congress it had contacted, all substantial gifts to members of Congress, total amounts spent and sources of contributions over $2,500.

So-called home-state organizations which only make contact with that state's representatives or senators are exempted.

Fred Wertheimer, a Common Cause spokesman, said the bill would cause disclosure of the true dimensions of lobbying in Washington.

But Public Citizen, a lobbying arm of Nader's Congress Watch, called the legislation "anti-democratic."

Canned Foods Price Increase Expected

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Consumers can expect to see some price increases for canned fruits and vegetables this summer despite abundant supplies remaining from last year's harvest.

Retail prices for canned goods in the first part of this year generally were lower than in the same period of 1975, but increases at the wholesale level signal an end to the bargains.

"Discounts have been on for most of the year," Lawrence VanMeir, economist for the National Canners Association, said Tuesday, adding that canning company warehouses were overstocked because of large crops and sales slowdowns. "Price cutting came about by companies trying to move the product."

VanMeir said canners were selling some products at a loss. "You've got all this stuff in the warehouse and you've got to move it," he said.

In February, for example, VanMeir said it cost 28.3 cents to produce a can of peas, including almost 11 cents for the peas themselves, 2 cents for labor, 7 1/2 cents for the packaging, almost 3 cents for items such as taxes and about 5 cents for marketing, overhead, etc. At the same time, VanMeir said, canners were being paid 27.9 cents for a can of peas, a loss of four-tenths of a cent.

(The average retail price at the time was 38.3 cents, including four-tenths of a cent profit for the wholesaler and half a cent profit for the retailer.)

The government's Consumer Price Index showed that retail prices for some canned goods decreased from 1975 to 1976. The index for canned peas, for example, stood at just under 161 in January, 1976, a little more than 2 1/2 per cent below what it was a year earlier. The index for canned peas declined about the same amount.

Supplies are still high. The 1975-76 supply of canned fruits is 79.3 million cases, up from 74.2 million in 1974-75 and 65.9 million in 1973-74. The 1975-76 supply of vegetables is 204.5 million cases, up from about 181 million in each of the previous two years.

The warehouses are gradually being emptied, however. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has indicated that farmers reduced their plantings of six major vegetables this year. And the canners are trying to make up for previous profit squeezes.

Several manufacturers have boosted prices — generally about a penny per can. Libby, McNeill & Libby of Chicago announced increases ranging from 20 to 40 cents a case, effective July 5.

Mental Health Group To Meet

The Pickaway County Mental Health Association will meet in the probate courtroom Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Mike Brown and Chief of Police Robert Temple, and Mayor Frank Barnhill.

In his report to council, service committee chairman John Jenkins reported he had met with the board of public utilities during an interview with an applicant for the position of public utilities manager. Although Taylor has not submitted a resignation to the board of public utilities, he has asked them to seek qualified applications for the position as well as applicants with a class 3 license for the position of chief operator of the sewage treatment plant.

Mayor Frank Barnhill reported the city service department has been repairing streets and alleys and replacing some manhole covers. He reported the work in the service department is progressing smoothly.

Safety Director Ebert explained to council the operation of the proposed traffic light at the Court-Ted Lewis Park intersection emphasizing it will only be actuated when cars are leaving the park. He said the estimated cost of the light and equipment will be $7,000.

Taylor reported the water department still has no explanation for the water loss Sunday morning but said that during the hot dry weather the water pumping station will be manned around the clock to assure the citizens of the city that such an incident will not happen again.

He announced the construction of the southeast water storage tank is moving along on schedule.

However, he noted construction at the sewage treatment plant is behind schedule. Originally to be completed this month, Taylor said it will be January before it is ready for operation.

Taylor said that court litigation has tied up awarding the contract for the connecting sewer to the new plant. A hearing has been scheduled June 24 in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Fire chief Mike Brown announced that Circleville Twp. Trustees have purchased a 3,000 gallon tanker to be used in fighting fires in the township.

Brown announced that he expected to have Firehouse No. 2 in operation in early July.

He also informed council he hopes to organize an auxiliary volunteer fire fighters unit late this summer to work with the paid members of the department.

He requested council to consider adding $2,000 to the fire department budget for the purchase of equipment, noting the high cost of equipment.

Aid Bill Seeks Bus Alternative

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohio congressmen, Democrat John Seiberling of Akron and Republican Charles Whalen Jr. of Dayton, have introduced a bill which would provide aid for alternatives to court-ordered busing.

The bill would provide $1 billion annually through 1978 for such alternatives as the building of magnet schools, construction of neutral site schools, educational parks or "cluster schools," and a variety of vocational education programs that include pairing schools.

Their measure is the House version of a bill introduced in April by Sen. John Glenn, DOhio.

"The irony is that some of the money spent on busing could be better spent on the upgrading of in-class programs," Seiberling said. He added that the measure wouldn't eliminate all instances of busing.

Children's Diseases At All Time Low

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Outbreaks of many children's diseases were at an all-time low in Ohio last year, although other communicable diseases increased significantly, according to state health officials.
Dr. John Ackerman, state public health department director, said that cases of measles were at a record low last year, after establishment of intensive search and containment programs.

"We've been working very hard for a number of years to get the children of the state immunized," Ackerman said. "We've had a lot of cooperation from private physicians and local schools."
In an annual summary of communicable disease control, the health department said there were no reports of polio or diphtheria last year, and only two reported cases of tetanus. But officials said there were significant increases in some forms of venereal disease.

"Gonorrhea is numerically the big problem," Ackerman said. "As of now we have no real answer to control the problem. We can cure it very nicely but prevention is what we're looking for."

An increase of almost 20 per cent in gonorrhea cases was reported in 1975, involving identification of 21,400 infections. But state laboratories have begun producing test materials and distributing them to health facilities throughout the state. The measure is hoped to increase the ability to find and confirm cases of the disease.

Ackerman said laws have been passed to require gonorrhea tests for pregnant women as well as VD education programs in schools. But he says it's too early to assess the outcome of the legislation.

The department's Bureau of Preventive Medicine said there was a 55 per cent increase in cases of primary and secondary syphilis. The department said it had reports of 516 cases of syphilis in the state in 1975, compared with 333 cases the previous year.

The department is still investigating an outbreak of encephalitis in the state, which resulted in 28 deaths. In an attempt to control the disease, members of the department are covering the state looking for mosquito breeding places.

Ackerman said the disease is known as St. Louis encephalitis, which before last year had not appeared in Ohio for some time. He said the health department is monitoring mosquito breeding places and will be prepared to combat the disease should it recur.

The disease "particularly attacks the young and old and has significant mortality rates and significant after effects," Ackerman said. "We are very much concerned that the virus is still around and that it will recur this year."

In general, officials say that stepped up disease control programs are aimed at dealing directly with health care needs in the community.

Ackerman said efforts would continue toward a redistribution of services in the department "to increase the accent on physical well-being and more effective maintenance of health."

Soviets Hike Customs Duties On Packages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is sharply raising its customs duties on parcels sent in from abroad, prompting congressional charges that the Kremlin move may be aimed at restricting Western support of dissidents and Soviet Jews.

The increased customs duties also raise the cost of gift parcels regularly sent by thousands of Ukrainians, Lithuanians and other emigres in the United States to relatives in the Soviet Union.

The higher duties, set to take effect today, come in addition to tightened regulations and a 30 per cent tax imposed earlier this year on Soviet citizens receiving foreign currency.

"Packages are vital to the survival of Soviet Jews who have been dismissed from their jobs because they have made applications to emigrate to Israel," said Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y.

In letters he wrote June 8 to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the United States, Buckley added that "in the name of humanity, I appeal to you for your consideration of this matter."

Also protesting the increased duties was Rep. James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, who said he has learned that a shipment of several thousand packages from the United States apparently has been delayed for months in reaching recipients in the Soviet Union.

An official on the State Department's Soviet desk, Leonard Willems, said the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has raised the matter with the Soviet Foreign Ministry. No substantive response has been received yet from the Soviets, Willems said.

In New York, leaders of the American Jewish Congress were joined by several public officials Monday in staging a demonstration against the new Soviet duties on the steps of the city's main post office.

A Page Of Opinion

Making Leisure Useful

Future generations will have still more leisure than the present one. To spend time enjoyably and perhaps fruitfully requires education, not only of the formal type, but liberal and humane as well.

Leisure must have its achievements and its standards, otherwise most of it will be mere time-wasting.

There is a philosophy in this, as there should be in all approaches to education. No duty is more important, no responsibility graver than that of training the next generation.

Increasingly, it is a duty which has been shrugged off by parents and taken on by the education system. Schools are no longer responsible only for scholastic training. They are expected to assume a multitude of other duties.

This trend will continue only so long as parents permit it. Today, particularly in the U.S., the population is weighted on the side of youth. But it has the potential for aging dramatically in the coming years as a result of increased longevity and lower birth rates.

In a few years the peak of youth will have passed. The demand for leisure will continue, but in a changing form.

Words Of Wisdom

By JIM BISHOP

My old man was a marvel of cast-iron opinions. He was never in doubt about anything. Once, at a race track, I handed my binoculars to him. He studied the vast crowd in the infield. "For God's sake," he said, "isn't anybody working?"

He was a big florid policeman who faced the world with his head high and his knuckles on his hips. He thought it was an affront to look at a pregnant lady while speaking to her. He spoke looking upward. He had but one opinion about my sister Adele: "She'll remain pure or she'll answer to me."

I would not amount to anything in life. "I had hopes," he said piously, "of sending you to law school. You might have made a fine counsellor. On second thought, I think you ought to learn a trade."

His opinions encompassed everything. I didn't appreciate the salt mackerel he had for breakfast. "You don't know what's good for you," he said. "This is brain food."

I cut the fat from a slice of baked ham. "Look at that," he snarled. "Ten million damn Chinese starving and my kid doesn't know what's good for him." This also applied to such delicacies as creamed tripe and gristle and lamb stew.

He had a subtle understanding of foreign affairs, too. The French were perverts. The British weren't worth the powder to blow them to hell. The Russians couldn't make up their minds whether they were Europeans or Asiatics. The Japanese were international sneaks, but if you took their bifocals away they couldn't see a wall.

The trouble with the Republican Party was that they were stealing the nation and giving it to General Motors. Later, the trouble with the damn Democrats was that they were trying to give the country away. All Communists should be treated to a one-way, all-expenses-paid trip to Siberia.

Never argue with a priest, rabbi or minister because they are privy to the secrets of the universe. If you have a house, buy a flag and run it up every morning. Always press your suit, and shine your shoes on the toilet seat.

To keep healthy, drink Big John's specific: an 8-ounce glass of cider and Epsom salts once a week. If you pass a church, lift your hat. If you pass a neighbor lady - even if you don't like her - raise the hat and say, "Good day." Don't ever take money for going to a store.

Whatever you earn, give 75 per cent to your mother: "You're not going to have her forever, you know." Don't borrow money; don't lend it; never hock jewelry no matter how desperate you become.

"If I ever catch you lying to me, I'll break every bone in your body. Try me." Boys never cry. If you are in a fight, be courageous and carry the battle to him. No matter who wins, try to make up and be friends.

"When you grow up, if you must drink, don't touch the hard stuff. It has killed more great men than war." When you get married, tell your bride nothing. If you do, she'll be heaving it back at you for the rest of your life.

On a winter day after school, he called me into the bathroom. He had a face full of lather - it was the nearest Big John ever came to resembling Santa Claus. He pointed to the rim of the bathtub. I sat.

"Your mother tells me you're 14," he said, grimacing horribly and scraping his neck. "She says I should have a talk with you. Now you know as well as I do that there are two kinds of people - men and women, right?"

I nodded. "Okay. Now you're on the man side. So am I. Males have certain organs which are commonly referred to as private. You may be interested to know that women don't have them."

"No. They have things which produce babies." He waved the razor. "This is what keeps the pot boiling. Now, at a certain age, a young man should know certain things about what goes on between men and women in marriage."

He scraped the side of his face, and made a short cut across his upper lip. I sensed that he was becoming nervous. This is highly unusual in a man who has cast-iron opinions about everything.

He emitted a long windy sigh. "In short, my boy, take my word for it. Stay away from the damn women. They'll get you in nothing but trouble. That's all, son."

Prof Works With Peruvian Teachers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University professor will be working with Peruvian teachers this summer to improve higher education there, the university said Tuesday.

Robert W. Wagner of the OSU Department of Communications was given the summer job by the U.S. State Department. He will be senior lecturer on the Peruvian tour covering nine universities.

Moving Lawn

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — This is a "sod" but true story about a car covered with — a lawn.

A few years ago, a firm which makes floats for parades built a car covered with dichondra weed for a lawn firm as a promotional gimmick.

Workers drilled 1,000 rivets into a 1951 car to hold pieces of perforated angle iron, then fitted sections of dichondra sod onto the iron and held them down with chicken wire.

The car was auctioned off when the publicity campaign was over, and Archie Bard, a mushroom grower here, won the vehicle by bidding $500. Bard has discovered that a dichondra car isn't very practical, however. It has to be clipped with hedge shears and it has to be watered daily.

"We found that the top got too much sun and the sides didn't get enough, which caused uneven growth," Bard added.

The trouble proved too much for him.

"Right now, the car is just rusting away in the yard," Bard reported recently. "The weeds have taken over."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 16th, the 168th day of 1976. There are 198 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the first woman space traveler, Valentina Tereshkova, was launched into orbit from a base in the Soviet Union.

On this date in 1774, the first settlement in Kentucky, Harrodsburg, was founded.

In 1858, Abraham Lincoln said in a speech in Springfield, Illinois: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

In 1897, the Alaska gold rush began with news of a rich strike on Bonanza creek.

In 1920, the Council of the League of Nations held its first public meeting, at St. James palace in London.

In 1940, the French Maginot Line was abandoned to the Germans in World War II.

In 1960, President Dwight Eisenhower canceled a visit to Japan after anti-American rioting.

Circleville's single entry in the Ohio Seniors Golf Tournament was Dr. Walter F. Heine. Although he finished rather far back in the field, the doctor acknowledged having a good time while touring the fine facilities at Scioto Country Club in Columbus. He finished the 36-hole tournament with a total score of 189.

Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise supplied the Edison Museum in Ft. Myers, Fla., with a hubcap for the 1900 vintage Model T Ford displayed at the museum. The auto had been a gift to Edison from Henry Ford and somehow one of the hubcaps had been lost.

A 400-pound dog, longtime Circleville landmark, was moved from the W. E. Crist home on N. Court St. where it had stood guard for nearly half a century, to the home of Wallace Crist, Court St. and Park Place. The large bronze casting was originally an ornament on the Dolly Turley lot in Forest Cemetery. However, cemetery officials banned the statue from the grounds when it caused horses to become frightened and bolt. It was then purchased by W. E. Crist.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester I. Coleman, M.D.

A great deal of unnecessary anxiety has been generated by the announcement of the possibility of a severe flu epidemic at the end of this year. Many people believe that not enough of the vaccine will be available. They also feel that cost of the vaccine will skyrocket and that it will be available only to those who can afford it.

This has no validity. The production rate of the flu vaccine is now in an active level of growth. This means that all the high risk groups of people will have the vaccine in time for adequate protection. People with chronic illnesses, the elderly, the infirm and debilitated will be inoculated first. This will allow other groups who are less susceptible to the disease to be vaccinated at a later time.

Mass inoculation is contemplated and there should be no fears that anyone who needs inoculation will be deprived of it.

There is no need for all of us to feel that an impending calamity is inevitable. There is no better illustration that fear should be replaced by encouragement and hope than the coordinated efforts of the government, public health officials and the manufacturers.

Propose Nuclear Warhead Reduction By Replacement

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States may reduce its arsenal of 7,000 nuclear warheads in Western Europe by replacing old weapons with smaller and more accurate arms, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld has told America's European allies.

"We have some weapons now that are big, dirty and inaccurate. We want to replace them with some that are clean, neat and accurate," said a U.S. spokesman who briefed reporters on the semiannual meeting Monday of the seven-nation Nuclear Planning Group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The American official said the introduction of weapons that could be used with either conventional or nuclear warheads might make the use of nuclear weapons less likely.

Men Lead Decline In Smoking

ATLANTA (AP) — Five times more men than women have stopped smoking cigarettes in the past decade as the percentage of adult Americans who light up continues to decline, according to a national report released today.

In addition, many Americans who do smoke are switching to low-tar, low-nicotine cigarettes, the report said. It added that attitudes against public smoking have gotten stronger — even among smokers.

The figures are the result of a survey conducted by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, a component of the Center for Disease Control. The survey was done in collaboration with the division of cancer control and rehabilitation of the National Cancer Institute.

The proportion of male smokers aged 21 or older declined to 39.3 per cent in 1975 from 42.2 per cent in 1970 and 52.8 per cent in 1964, the report said.

The percentages for women 21 or over were 28.9 per cent in 1975, compared with 30.5 per cent in 1970 and 31.5 in 1964.

The survey covered 12,000 smokers and nonsmokers, the largest such survey ever conducted, according to the clearinghouse.

The result "demonstrates that Americans can change their life-styles for the sake of their health," said Dr. David Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

be receiving a new type of protein to help eradicate mass malnutrition. Research workers at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, New York, are now producing an inexpensive source of excellent protein for human consumption.

Previously, portions of fish that have been filleted have been discarded. Today, after the scales and bones are removed, special enzymes reduce the remaining protein to produce amino acids. The result is a product high in protein that looks like soy sauce with an excellent flavor of its own.

This is a major contribution to the masses of people who live in a chronic state of semi-starvation.

One of the great advances that made open heart surgery possible for young infants was to virtually "pack them in ice." This reduced their temperature (hypothermia) and made successful surgery possible. Dr. S. Subramanian of the Buffalo, New York, Children's Hospital has designed a machine resembling a household refrigerator. The young infant is placed in this unit before the surgery is begun. This is a valuable addition to the brilliance of the surgical techniques that are now available.

ministration to see if the stockpile of warheads can be reduced. Rumsfeld submitted a plan to accomplish this to the NATO nuclear group at its last meeting in January.

However, officials said that since a proposed cut is part of negotiations with the Soviets, a reduction is unlikely without a corresponding reduction of Soviet forces. The United States and its allies want the Soviet Union to withdraw a tank army from central Europe.

Rumsfeld gave the meeting an estimate on the total nuclear balance between Soviet and Western forces and also discussed "restraint and hold-backs," safety devices and procedures to prevent the unauthorized use of nuclear weapons, the briefing official reported.

He also said there had been no suggestion from any of the countries where American nuclear weapons are kept that they wanted to get rid of them. Most of the weapons are in West Germany.

There has been speculation that American nuclear weapons would be removed from Italy if the Communists get into the government there after the national election next week. However, there has been no official confirmation of this.

Dear Editor, I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who contributed to and helped work at the Fifth Annual Firemen's Fish Fry of the Pickaway Twp. Fire Dept.

The support from local industries, businesses and members of the community has made this event bigger and better every year.

Proceeds will help buy additional equipment needed by the fire department. Equipment bought from this fish fry may help save your life or property in years to come.

Thanks again to all of those who helped. See you next year.

Dems Prepare Noncontroversial Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter wanted a noncontroversial campaign program that would offend neither the left nor right in the Democratic party, and the party's platform committee has given it to him.

If Carter wins his party's nomination for President in July, as expected, he'll run on a platform that should go a long way toward uniting his party behind him. There was so little disagreement in two day's of meetings that ended Tuesday that the platform panel adjourned a day early.

"It's the first time in 16 years that the Democratic party has been so united," said a jubilant Stuart Eizenstat, the Atlanta attorney who was Carter's top representative on the committee.

He said there was nothing in the 89-page platform that Carter couldn't support. But he quickly added, "This is a Democratic party document, not a Jimmy Carter document."

The key features of the platform are

Say Substitute Mother Births Baby Baboon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists say they have produced a healthy baby baboon by transferring an early embryo from its original mother to another female who carried it until birth.

The development is a first for primates and raises the distant possibility that surrogate mothers also may be feasible for humans, a Texas A&M University researcher said Tuesday.

The idea of using substitute mothers for women unable to carry a baby full term has been discussed in recent years. Aside from the technical difficulties, however, the idea raises social, legal and ethical questions.

"The real impact of our work is in developing animal models for studying the process of pregnancy, rather than for an infertility treatment," Dr. Duane C. Kraemer said in an interview.

In the current issue of the journal Science, Kraemer and his colleagues, Drs. Gary T. Moore and Martin A. Kramen, describe how they removed a baboon embryo five days after ovulation from one female and put it into another.

Moore is with the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education in San Antonio, Tex., where the work was done, and Kramen is with the University of Texas at San Antonio.

The second female carried the developing male baby for about 170 days until it was delivered by caesarean section on Sept. 5, 1975, the report said. Normal average gestation for this type of baboon is 175 days.

Kraemer said the baby baboon, now nine months old, was "normal in every respect at birth and is the same way now."

"We have him running around with a group of his peers at the Southwest Foundation and the only way you can tell him from the others is by his tattooing."

Even with the success, the researchers said their work was preliminary since they only had one success out of 10 embryo transfers.

Similar procedures have long worked with other animals, such as mice, rabbits, sheep, horses and cows. Kraemer said the first rabbit embryo transfer was in 1890 and that transplants are routinely done in cattle.

"This work has a bearing on humans, but our goal is to develop specific strains of animals for biomedical research," Kraemer said.

"While I'm not aware of human work like this being done, it should be technically feasible but certainly not on the basis of our success rate, which isn't that great."

The first woman elected a U.S. Senator was Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, who filled her husband's term in 1931 and then served until 1945, when she was defeated by J. William Fulbright.

support for a national health insurance program, minimum income guarantees for all poor Americans, a program for full employment in three years and a strong national defense while also pursuing detente with our "traditional adversaries."

All spending programs would be phased in gradually, and only as the nation returned to full employment. If there is not a return to full employment, then the programs would not be fully implemented, party spokesmen have said.

There was no breakdown on what the individual programs would cost, but party officials have said the cost of all the programs, excluding national health insurance, would be about $30 billion.

Party spokesmen say that the cost of the national health insurance program — to be financed through a combination of an employee-employer payroll tax and general revenues — would not exceed the $130 billion now being spent on health and medical care in the United States.

The delegates approved a proposal to delay any decision on production of the controversial B1 bomber until February 1977 at the earliest, a proposal that is before the House this week.

The unity on the 153-member platform committee was never more evident than after it handed the Carter forces their only significant defeat — approval of a proposal favoring a general pardon for persons who opposed the Vietnam war.

Supporters of the general pardon, after winning the vote, followed up with an amendment that would provide that pardons for deserters be considered on a case-by-case basis. Carter forces embraced the conciliatory gesture.

The platform committee easily defeated proposals to legalize marijuana and measures advocated by gay rights groups. Platform statements on busing and abortion did not go beyond simple expressions of support for court decisions on these highly controversial issues.

Mayor John Poelker of St. Louis, an uncommitted member, said the Carter supporters brought pressures on delegates to influence key votes, but he added that most delegates appeared willing to cooperate, not wanting another election-day debacle like that of 1972.

"We're in much better shape because the various constituencies of the party were willing to give on both sides to come up with a platform that a candidate can support without being hurt by it," he said.

Rep. Yvonne Burke of California, a supporter of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown and who frequently advocated a more liberal stance on issues, said Carter representatives "did some pushing, but they needed to push."

"We didn't want to get into the same divisive debates that hurt us so much in the past."

The platform is still subject to formal approval by the Democratic National Convention in New York in July, but it is unlikely there will be substantial changes.

In the pardon showdown, the committee voted 55 to 44 on a roll call vote to support a general pardon for persons in legal or financial difficulty because of peaceful opposition to the Vietnam war.

Eizenstat had taken the floor to say it was "unacceptable" because it would apply to deserters, as well as draft-evaders. Carter supports a pardon for draft-evaders but not for deserters.

However, former antiwar activist Sam Brown, now secretary of state of Colorado, who pushed through the pardon plank, then followed up with the amendment providing that pardons for deserters be considered on a case-by-case basis. Brown said he was offering the change as a conciliatory gesture, even though he personally opposed it.

Eizenstat said the change, approved by voice vote, meant party members "will go out of this room united on one of the most emotional issues we have."

Carter supporters backed a move by delegates representing Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., to put back into the platform some of the firm language on national defense that was eliminated by liberal members of a party task force Monday.

It calls for rejection of any international arms agreement that doesn't permit the United States the same over-all limit of "intercontinental strategic forces" as the Soviet Union. Approval was by a 58 to 39 rollcall vote, one of only two such votes during the meeting.

Showers and thundershowers will move through the state today with the heaviest activity expected in southeastern Ohio this afternoon.

Thunderstorms dropped heavy rain over part of the state Tuesday night, with about a quarter of an inch measured in Toledo.

The shower activity is the product of a cold front moving from Lake Huron to southern Illinois. A few showers may fall for a while after the front passes, but afternoon skies will be sunny over the northwest.

High temperatures will be in the low to mid 80s this afternoon. An area of high pressure will follow, bringing clearing skies with overnight temperatures in the 50s except for the 60s in the southeast.

Edison Wins Hearing Delay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Edison has won a three-month delay in public hearings on its proposed expansion of the Davis-Bessie nuclear generating plant.

The hearings, scheduled for next month and rescheduled for Oct. 5, are to determine environmental compatibility and public need of the expansion.

The Power Siting Commission said it granted the delay because Toledo Edison has not submitted requested information about its fuel contracts.

Mace-Wertman Nuptials Held

MR. AND MRS. GARY LEE WERTMAN

Miss Sharon Lee Mace and Mr. Gary Lee Wertman were united in marriage June 4 in the First Church of God, Laurelville.

The Rev. Lynn Summers solemnized the 7:30 p.m. ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mace and the son of Mrs. William Bay, Lancaster and Mr. Darrol Wertman, Stoutsville.

Miss Patti Stump, organist, presented a half-hour program of nuptial selections.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin gown designed and made by Miss Cheryl Irene Hettinger.

The dress had a V-neckline, short cap sleeves, a bow in back and a flounced ruffle at the bottom. The gown was enhanced with lace and the chapel length veil of illusion was caught to a lace covered cap.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and yellow and pink rose buds.

Miss Cheryl Hettinger of Adelphi was maid of honor. Her yellow double knit gown was formal length with white insets in the bodice. The gown was sleeveless with narrow shoulder straps.

She wore a white hat and shawl, and carried a single pink rose from which flowed long variegated streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Seymour and Mrs. Martin Unger, sister of the bride, Miss Stacia Bauman, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Kenneth Poling and Mrs. Jeff Kempton.

Their dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor and featured a rainbow of colors including peach, pink, lavender, light blue, and mint green.

They all wore white hats and shawls. Each bridesmaid carried either a yellow or pink rose with variegated streamers.

Miss Katie Fields and Miss Stephanie Smith were flower girls. They both wore long turquoise dresses made of double-knit with capped sleeves edged in white trim. They carried baskets of white rose petals from which flowed long variegated streamers.

Katie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fields, Adelphi. Stephanie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, also of Adelphi.

Miss Tamara Thompson presided over the guest book.

Personals

Miss Gladys McCain, Circleville, spent the past week in Columbus visiting with her sister, Mrs. Irene Betts. She also visited with her nephew, Phillip Vinewau who will be a patient in Children's Hospital.

Cathy DeLong Feted With Bridal Shower

Miss Cathy DeLong, bride elect of Alan Phillips, was honored June 12 with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Carl DeLong, 146 Town St.

Hostesses were Mrs. Don Carver and Mrs. Brett Brown. The table was covered with a yellow and green cloth with the color theme extended to the cake and punch. Coffee, mints, nuts and potato chips were also served.

Guests were Mrs. Gene Oliver, Mrs. Sarah Miller, Mrs. Don Carver, Mrs. Brett Brown, Mrs. Carl DeLong, Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mrs. William Nichols, Mrs. William Francis, Mrs. SESCO Hardesty, Jeanne and Johnny, Mrs. Tana Williams, Mrs. Roy Smythe and Dreama Evans.

Gifts were received from Miss Kathy Morehart, Mrs. Jerry Goble and Mrs. David Miller, who were unable to attend. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Gene Oliver, Mrs. Robert Nichols, Mrs. Roy Smythe and Mrs. Lana Williams.

Miss DeLong and Mr. Phillips will be married 7 p.m. July 10 at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The tradition of open church will be observed.

Soloqua Club To Hold Flower Show

The Soloqua Garden Club held its June meeting at the Ashville Coffee Shop with Mrs. Bernard Savy and Mrs. Everett Peters as hostesses.

Mrs. Glen Rinehart, president, opened the meeting by reading "A Garden is a Hallowed Place" and conducted the business session.

An announcement was made concerning the Bicentennial flower show to be held in connection with the Ashville Fourth of July Celebration.

Miss Martha Brinker, chairman, invites the residents of Pickaway County to make entries in the show.

Mrs. James Hott, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the nominated officers for the coming year. They are Mrs. Austin Hoover, president; Mrs. Orin Bircher, vice-president; Mrs. Cecil Ward, secretary and Mrs. Paul Stout, treasurer.

Mrs. William Lockard of the Ashville Flower Shop gave an interesting talk and demonstration on making arrangements for a summer wedding.

The guest speaker suggested beautiful corsages of carnation, daisy chrysanthemum, baby breath, greenery and rose buds. The bridesmaid baskets with the color scheme of green, yellow and apricot as predominating colors, using the same flowers, was also suggested.

A corsage was given to Mrs. Peters and a lovely basket arrangement was given to Mrs. William Baich.

Mrs. Rinehart closed the program by reading a poem, "Why Worry", by Homer Smith. Dessert refreshments were served to sixteen members and one guest, Mrs. Lockard.

The July meeting will be July 9 and will feature a tour of Sugar Loaf Mountain near Chillicothe and other interesting places nearby.

The club will meet at the L-K Restaurant at 9:30 a.m. to go on the tour.

OES To Meet Tuesday

Ashville Senior Citizens See Holy Land Slides

The Ashville area Senior Citizens held their regular all day monthly meeting Thursday in the basement of the Village United Methodist church.

After the morning social hour, everyone enjoyed sack lunches at noon. Everett Shriver conducted the business meeting and introduced Helen Kuhlwein, program chairman. She presented Hazel Yeatts and her son Jerry who showed slides of the Holy Land. Mrs. Yeatts and Franceil Cromley, Jennie Eccard and Marion Hinkle were all part of the tour group which visited the Holy Land in February of this year. Mrs. Yeatts had also brought a number of interesting articles from the Holy Land and everyone enjoyed the travelogue a great deal.

Prior to the travelogue program, Franceil Cromley and Edward Ray Beery sang a duet, "I walked today where Jesus Walked", with Berry also playing the piano accompaniment.

During the business meeting everyone was urged to attend the public hearing on funding for the elderly, which will be held in the Lutheran Parish House, 135 E. Mound St., June 23 from 10 a.m. until noon. This is a change from the previously announced time of 1:30 p.m.

They were also invited to sign up to go to the Girl Scout Camp on June 29, leaving on the bus from the Center at 10:30 a.m. Everything is free that day, though each person attending should take along some cookies and fruit to share with the girls who will be preparing the lunch for everyone.

Reservations for the July 20 ball game will be opened on Monday, June 21.

The next all day Ashville meeting will be a picnic in the open shelterhouse in the Community Park, at noon July 8. Everyone attending should bring food, table service and something to drink. Entertainment in the afternoon will be playing bingo, using the new bingo cards recently purchased for the senior citizens by the Circleville Kiwanis Club. Those wishing to play should bring small wrapped useful items such as staple goods, canned items, soap, jello, etc. to use for prizes.

Martha Brinker, one of the Fourth of July Celebration committee, spoke to the group about the fast-approaching Bicentennial celebration and asked for volunteers to be present at the school during the time when the displays will be open for public viewing. Help will be needed on Saturday between 7 and 10 p.m., on Sunday from noon until 10 p.m. and on Monday from noon until 10 p.m. Anyone who can help an hour or two or even longer during those periods should call Martha Brinker at 983-3287.

Wilkins Will Hold Their Silver Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WILKINS

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Wilkins of 121 Town St., will celebrate their Silver Wedding anniversary at an open house, June 27, at Gold Cliff Park, Route 23 South, from 1 to 4 p.m.

William Wilkins of Woodstock, Ohio and Isabel Hancher of Greenwich, Ohio were united in marriage, June 24, 1951, at the Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St., by the Rev. Harley Bennett.

Mr. Wilkins is a carpenter working in Columbus for the Lincoln Construction Co. and Mrs. Wilkins is a bus driver for the Circleville City School System.

Hosting the event will be their children — Terry Hancher, Mrs. Bernard (Brenda) Davis, and Malcolm Wilkins of Circleville and Richard Wilkins of Columbus.

The couple requests no gifts.

Ma'am, Major

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — Maj. Eloise Dotts, ROTC instructor at Sam Houston High School, is believed to be the first woman to hold such a position in the history of the Houston Independent School District.

The student commander of the corps, where girls outnumber boys, however, is Rex Cauther, a male.

Ann Strawser, Larry Hay To Wed In July

ANN STRAWSER

Mr. and Mrs. Nyle Strawser, Route 1, Ashville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Christine, to Larry William Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hay, Ashville.

Miss Strawser is a 1974 graduate of Teays Valley High School and attended Otterbein College in Westerville. She is a member of Theta Nu Sorority.

Mr. Hay is a 1971 graduate of Teays Valley High School and a 1975 graduate of Otterbein College, where he majored in life science and chemistry.

He is a member of Lambda Gamma Epsilon Fraternity.

Mr. Hay is presently engaged in farming.

The wedding will take place in July at Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church in Ashville.

Ohio Yesterday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the first election in the old Northwest territory voters appeared before sheriffs and county coroners at Marietta, Cincinnati, Steubenville and Chillicothe and some other towns, where in public and in loud voices they declared their preferences for representatives to the territorial legislature.

It followed a precedent set by Virginia as early as 1624, but after the first territorial election, Gov. Arthur St. Clair was besieged with complaints of irregularities. Charges were made that voters had been bribed or intimidated at the polling places and that strongarm tactics had been used to secure votes.

In 1800 St. Clair asked the territorial legislature to abandon this form of voting in favor of the secret ballot. Late that year the assembly enacted his suggestion into law, and Ohio's first Constitution contained similar provisions.

The system was still not ideal because for the first 88 years of statehood each political party printed its own ballots of a specific color and in such a way that they were no more secret than the voice vote.

The practice of buying votes and the total lack of secrecy prompted the General Assembly to enact a law in 1868 directing the political parties to print their tickets on white paper with a specified type of ink. To circumvent this act one party used a very white paper and the other a cream-colored one.

Real election reform in Ohio was postponed until the Australian ballot was adopted in 1891. Under provisions of the new law, the state government printed or authorized the printing of blank ballots which contained the names of all candidates of all parties. Ballots were issued at the polling places only, one to a voter who marked it in secret.

Beef Marketing Program Continues

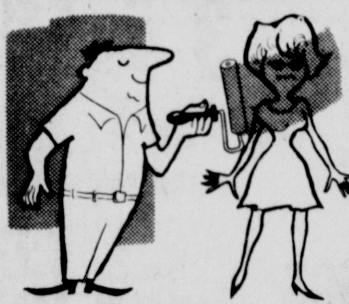

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Beef Marketing Program will continue after public hearing into its termination showed beef producers want the service, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The program promotes the sale and use of beef and is financed by a levy of 10 cents per head of beef sold by users of the program.

Ohio beef production last year was valued at more than $250 million.

The battle of Lake Borgne, Dec. 14, 1814, was a British naval victory but the victory led to British disaster at the Battle of New Orleans. The delay achieved by the American gunboats enabled Andrew Jackson to reach New Orleans in time to defeat a British land force.

BUY FRESH PRODUCE

Now is the time to buy more fresh produce. Many of the most popular fruits and vegetables are in season at this time and are an excellent buy.

Although there are many varieties of fresh fruits and vegetables, there are some general rules consumers can follow in buying any fresh produce.

Look for bright colors and overall freshness. Produce is displayed carefully in our supermarkets to maintain this freshness. Always handle fresh produce with care. Many items are delicate and damage easily with rough handling. It doesn't take a bruising pinch to tell whether or not an item is ripe.

Buy only the amount that can be used while the product is at the peak of freshness. Produce that has deteriorated and must be thrown out is a waste of money.

Experiment with produce items that are new to your family. Planning interesting meals every day is not easy. Using a wide variety of fresh fruits and vegetables will add color, texture and lots of good nutrition to family meals.

Lebanese Fighting Mass Flu . . . Halts Following Arab Mediation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — No fighting was reported in Lebanon today following announcements by Arab mediators that Syria will lift its blockade of Beirut and other coastal cities and that Lebanese Christian leaders have given conditional approval to a pan-Arab peacekeeping force for their country.

For the first time in weeks, both Moslem and Christian broadcasts made no mention of any fighting anywhere in the war-ravaged country. Unconfirmed reports said the Syrian column advancing into Palestinian guerrilla country in southeast Lebanon had captured the garrison town of Marjayoun and pushed on to about three miles from the Israeli border. But there was no report of any opposition.

Libyan Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud, after meetings in Damascus and Beirut, said in a broadcast Tuesday night that Syria had agreed to pull its troops back into eastern Lebanon. But he said they will remain there until the Moslem-Christian civil war is settled.

Jalloud said the first stage of the Syrian withdrawal — from Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, and Bhamdoun, on the Beirut-Damascus highway 12 miles east of Beirut — would begin "instantly."

"After the Syrian forces withdraw to the Bekaa Valley, all roads, sea and air routes will open. We will never accept the policy of starving the people," Jalloud said.

Diplomatic sources said Syrian tanks on hills overlooking Sidon were shelling food ships approaching the port, while Syrian navy ships were blockading Tyre, 26 miles south of Sidon, and Tripoli, 60 miles north of Beirut.

Beirut was blockaded by Syrian troops controlling the airport and the highways into the city. The capital's port is in the middle of the main downtown battle zone and has been closed for months.

The secretary-general of the Arab League, Mahmoud Riad, told newsmen that Lebanon's Christian president, Suleiman Franjeh, reversed his position and agreed to Arab troops from countries other than Syria after Riad "provided him with explanations and assurances on Lebanon's sovereignty and independence."

But another Christian warlord, former President Camille Chamoun, said he and Pierre Gemayel of the Christian Phalange party would accept the pan-Arab force only under certain conditions.

He did not specify the conditions, but one was believed to be that only Syrian forces would patrol Christian territory. The Christians welcomed the Syrian invasion because one of its purposes was to prevent their defeat by the Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies. But they are hostile to the proposed Arab League force because it is to include troops from Libya and Algeria, which support their opponents in the civil war.

With Syrian forces reported driving into southern Lebanon and approaching the Israeli border, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin told the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem that Israel could be threatened "if Lebanon loses its independence and falls victim to the terrorist organizations and their allies, or is trampled under Syrian rule."

"We are following developments alertly, the army is on guard."

Firestone Faces Illegal Political Contribution Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has accused Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of making $330,000 in illegal domestic political contributions.

The SEC complaint, announced Tuesday, also charged that the firm spent about $93, 000 in Mexico to get a price increase and help in settling government matters.

In addition, the commission accused Firestone Board Chairman Raymond C. Firestone of personally supervising the domestic political contributions operation.

Robert P. Beasley, who retired June 1 as vice chairman, was identified as manager of the political contributions.

Specific recipients of the Firestone money were not named.

Simultaneously with filing of the SEC suit in U.S. District Court, Firestone Tire, Beasley and Raymond Firestone accepted a negotiated settlement under which they consented to the terms but neither admitted nor denied allegations in the suit.

Under terms of a settlement, the company agreed not to commit any future violations of securities laws, to conduct a full investigation of the improper spending and to report the results of that investigation to the SEC and the court.

The company later said in a statement: "Firestone has agreed to the consent order so that we can move this matter toward a conclusion as quickly as possible."

Firestone announced June 6 its audit undertaken at SEC request had found the $330,000 in contributions plus what it called small "questionable or improper" payments in foreign countries. But it didn't name the countries, subsidiaries or recipients involved.

The firm said at the time it was reporting its findings to the SEC and its stockholders but that the audit, though virtually complete, was continuing.

The SEC complaint contended that of the $330,000 spent on domestic politics from 1970 through May 1973, about half went directly to politicians. The rest went to reimburse Firestone executives who made contributions on their own, the SEC said.

On the Mexico payments, the SEC contended that Firestone was one of six tire companies which funneled $400,000 to the former manager of the Mexican tire industry trade association in support of an application filed with the government price-control agency for a general increase in tire prices.

The SEC said Firestone's share of the bill amounted to $39,600 and was paid on July 8, 1974, the same date the government sent official notice of approval of the price increase.

The SEC also said Firestone's Mexican subsidiary paid about $3,000 a year to government employes from 1970 to the present "to obtain various benefits such as the settlement of tax disputes and the issuance of building permits."

The same subsidiary paid another $35,000 at an unspecified time to obtain import permits, according to the SEC documents.

congressional resistance to such a request there was a question about whether the government should "protect these multi-billion dollar corporations" without offering the same protection for doctors, nurses and other health volunteers who also would be potentially liable for administering the vaccine.

Some HEW officials are doubtful an indemnification bill could pass, mindful of the Senate Appropriations Committee report last April directing that "the various governmental units shall be free from liability in terms of the vaccine" and that "the drug producers should remain responsible for the vaccine, its quality and any adverse reactions directly attributable to the vaccine."

Meanwhile, critics of the vaccination program are questioning the wisdom of giving flu shots against a disease that has not been seen since a brief appearance confined to Ft. Dix, N.J., early this year.

While these questions are being debated, the government is going ahead with its plans in the hope that the problems will be ironed out.

Results of experimental vaccinations on about 5,000 men, women and children will be presented to an open meeting of government scientists June 21 and that information will be presented the next day to the federal Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

Out of that session will likely come the recommendation for proper dosage of vaccine against swine flu, more properly called A-New Jersey-76, for most adults, and a combination vaccine against A-New Jersey and A-Victoria flu strains for the elderly and persons suffering from serious heart, lung, kidney diseases and diabetes.

The government plans to buy all the swine-flu vaccine that the U.S. companies can produce and to distribute it to state health departments which, in turn, will be responsible for getting the vaccine to public immunization clinics and private doctors.

The vaccine will be free to recipients. Private physicians may charge for giving the shots in their offices, however.

Meanwhile, the Advertising Council Inc. on June 10 unanimously approved the government's $150,000 public service advertising campaign to inform Americans through television, radio, newspapers and magazines about the importance of swine-flu shots and how and where to get one.

The flu vaccine is made from so-called killed viruses, which have been fragmented by chemicals and cannot give anyone flu itself. There have been only two deaths from flu vaccine and none since 1946, as vaccines became more refined.

SERTOMA SPEAKER — State Representative Myrl Shoemaker (right) was the speaker Tuesday at the Pickaway Plains Sertoma Club meeting. He was presented by Charlie Carle (left). Shoemaker spoke on the voter responsibility and participation.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Sure Tipoff For Teenage Drivers

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer is here, I notice so many teenagers driving much too fast and recklessly. Two years ago I clipped the enclosed editorial from our local newspaper and showed it to our teenage son and daughter, and after they read it they became two of the most sensible drivers alive.

Please print it, Abby. It may do he same for others.

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: It's well worth an entire column. Who wrote it? And for which newspaper? I want to credit the author.

PLEASE GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded, "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off-going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened: it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled, I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17, I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please...somebody...wake me up! Get me out of here. I can't bear to see my Mom and Dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can barely walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And, I can't believe it either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Immunization For Swine Flu Hits Legal Snags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials are for the first time openly discussing the possibility that the campaign to give 215 million Americans a swine flu shot this fall may not get off the ground.

The mass immunization effort on a scale never before attempted has, they say, run into massive and perhaps insurmountable legal obstacles.

Shorter Hair, Neatness Trend By College Men

By G.G. LaBELLE
Associated Press Writer

"Cut it over the ears. I'm going for a job interview," the red-haired student told the barber as he eased into the chair at a shop a half-block from the University of California at Berkeley. The shorn student is by no means alone. The Associated Press found, in a series of interviews conducted across the nation, that the trend among college men is not only toward shorter hair but toward more neatness in general.

That does not mean a return to the crewcut, or that the ubiquitous blue jean is fading from the scene.

It does mean busier barbers and clothing stores as students turn to trimmer hair and to fancier jeans, corduroy slacks or — Leaping Levis! — an occasional suit.

"People who were in school back in the '50s would still find clothing styles a shock, but less so than before," was the way Roger Howard, assistant dean of students at the University of Wisconsin, saw the campus scene.

"The olive drab stuff and overalls are not nearly as predominant as they were a few years ago," he added.

What's replacing olive drab, according to clothing stores near colleges, are stylized jeans that fit tight, wool, cotton or corduroy slacks and nylon sports shirts, sometimes worn with beads or other kinds of necklaces.

David Graff, manager of a men's store near the Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., said neck jewelry "took off" after students returned from spring vacations with pendants and other jewelry they bought in Florida.

Graff, other clothiers and campus officials noted that blue denim is — and probably always will be — popular campus wear. The reason, they say, is that blue jeans are easy to take care of. "Students now tend to be practical," Graff said.

Practicality also enters into the purchase of suits — for job interviews — but they are also worn for parties occasionally.

"You used to hear students say, 'I don't even own a suit,' but you won't today," noted Kay W. McHenry, associate director of student activities at the University of Miami.

While she agreed that blue jeans and T-shirts remain popular, she said there was one difference from the jeans of five years ago: "They are clean." And barber Virgil Meuth, whose shop is near the University of Texas, says the same thing about hair, and he says it very succinctly: "Cleaner, seems like."

Barbers, students and college officials all said that hair was generally shorter, though still longer than pre-1960s haircuts.

There are several reasons for the new neatness, in clothes and hair. One, of course, is that given by the Berkeley students sitting in the barber chair: the need for a job and the fear that employers will be more particular in today's tighter economy.

Another reason is that men have discovered, particularly with summer coming, that long hair can be troublesome. Students, too, no longer see long hair and messy clothes as testifying to their ideology.

Derby News

The West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church convened Sunday in Lakeside. The convention will end on Friday. More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend the meeting at Lake Erie united Methodist grounds.

The Rev. Gerald F. Ensley, presiding bishop at the conference for 12 years, and a former pastor of the Derby charge, called the session to order on Sunday, and will preside over the meetings. This will be his last conference as an active bishop. He will retire on Sept. 1.

The Derby Garden Club will meet on June 28 at the Derby United Methodist Church.

Many thanks to Jacqui Rice's third and fourth grade, and Cheryl Graham's fifth and sixth grade Sunday School classes at the Derby United Methodist Church for the lovely cards they made for me. It made my day.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wilson Jr. on the birth of a son, Wayne Arthur, born June 13 at Madison County Hospital. He weighed 6-pounds 1-ounce.

Randy Higgins Kimm of California, spent a week visiting with his cousins Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wardell and children Debbie and Mike.

A reminder that a Father's Day picnic will be held in Darby Metropolitan Park at 4 p.m. on June 20. It is sponsored by Sunday School classes of the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene.

What's our secret to better grain service?

We WORK at it!

We work at fast unloading, to get you back to the field sooner. We work at upgrading facilities to handle grain better. We work at upgrading people, too, so they'll do a better job with your grain. We work at honest weighing. We work at fair grading. We work at accurate testing. We work at having up-to-the-minute market information.

And all this work is to make your Net Check better when you market your grain. When your wheat and oats are ready, give us a call. We'll work at it with you to make the return better.

NAUTICAL LINKS — Painter George Thomas puts his finishing touches on the chain connecting a row of bollards along the water's edge of the new Waterfront Park at Boston, Mass. Bollards are normally used to tie ships.

Small Rubber Firms Manage To Keep Busy

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Rubber industry firms not being struck by the United Rubber Workers say they have enough orders to keep them busy, but maintain the strike is not the sole reason for an increase in business. Sixty-thousand union members walked off the job in a dispute over a new three-year master contract April 21.

Few of the smaller firms, however, directly attribute their rise in business to the strike, says the trade weekly Rubber & Plastic News, in a copyrighted story.

The magazine says that carmakers have contacted the smaller tiremakers but that they generally weren't accepting orders because they already were swamped with business from regular customers.

Automakers say that the strike will have its greatest impact on the winter tire market which depends on summer production. The car producers add that some production cuts may come at the end of June.

Many new cars being delivered now do not carry spare tires.

The URW has been waiting for a tire crunch to hasten progress in the deadlocked talks with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and Uniroyal, Inc.

Bargaining with Firestone, the target company for an industrywide settlement, centers on a cost-of-living adjustment provision, wages and general benefits. The URW is asking for a 42 per cent increase in its total contract package.

The Big Four firms report that despite the strike their supervisory personnel have been able to continue some production both of tires and nontire items such as shoe products, industrial hose and belts and molded and extruded goods.

Firestone said Tuesday its nontire business is excellent and Goodrich told its stockholders Monday that its nontire centers were operating near capacity.

Rubber & Plastic News says that McCreary Tire & Rubber Co. in Indiana, Pa., reports that sales for the first five months were 30 per cent ahead of those a year earlier. Mohawk Rubber Co. of Hudson, Ohio, says sales were up 25 per cent the last five months.

KILLED — Student Elizabeth Hennessey, 15, was killed when a firecracker exploded in a fire extinguisher at the Cliffside, N.J. Park High School.

Rodent Control Programs Funded

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Health Director John H. Ackerman announced Tuesday that $903,000 in federal funds has been earmarked for rodent control programs in five Ohio cities.

The grants include $108,000 to Akron; $204,675 to Cincinnati; $155,000 to Cleveland; $203,262 to Columbus, and $192,063 to Toledo.

In addition, $40,000 will go to the Bowling Green State University to study the resistance of rats to anticoagulant poisons.

The Gallup Poll, a technique for sampling public opinion on various issues, was devised by George Horace Gallup, who founded the American Institute of Public Opinion in 1935.

Discrimination Suit Filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati woman has filed a class action suit in U.S. District Court here, charging the Ohio Education Association with discriminating against its women employees, including herself.

Mary Anthony, a field representative for the 83,000-member organization, said in the action filed last Friday that she was bypassed in favor of a male employee for consideration as a field coordinator.

She is asking the court to issue a preliminary injunction prohibiting the OEA from filling a coordinator vacancy, as scheduled, she said, on or about June 24, with a male employee, or from filling it with anyone other than "the named plaintiff or any other woman."

Anthony filed the suit through Columbus attorney Dennis J. Murphy after obtaining a so-called "right to sue" letter from the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission.

In addition, the Ohio Civil Rights Commission determined there was probable cause to believe the woman's charges were valid.

The class action seeks permanent relief for women employees of the big teacher lobbying organization, aside from the immediate injunction.

The court was asked to require the defendants to give members of the plaintiff class (women) jobs they would have held "if it were not for the discriminatory conduct of the defendants," and to initiate "affirmative steps to eliminate discrimination."

Further, it seeks to have the court award back pay, attorneys fees, costs, and other relief deemed "just and appropriate" by the court.

No date has been set for a hearing, the clerk's office said.

Named in the suit, besides the OEA, were Staynor Brighton, executive secretary of the organization; Wade Underwood, president, and William Stolz, field director.

Cooking Up High

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1976

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Get important matters out of the way by noon if possible. Certain planetary restrictions in the p.m. could bring about delays, unexpected interruptions.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You can make unusual progress in many areas now. Get your mind clicking early, and in tune with present trends.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Some challenges possible, but face them with confidence. With the Geminians' excellent foresight and ingenuity you should solve all problems successfully.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Changing conditions, new trends indicated. You may not like them all immediately, but many are better than they appear at a glance. Study everything carefully.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Direct action can be effective — IF you have accurate information. Otherwise, take the detour means safety, a reduced speed to prevent mishap.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): If you have a tight schedule, it will be especially important to remain calm. And DO appraise situations carefully before acting. Business matters need extra vigilance.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If suggestions offered do not seem feasible, rule them out. Do not become excited or too forceful in expressing views, but do stand by principles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Make careful arrangements in whatever you do. Actions reflect thoughts and there's a possibility now of hastily formed opinions, incorrect conclusions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You may have to throw in your lot with the oppositions, but first consider facts, advantages. Be vigorous in handling obligations, pursuit of worthwhile goals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Apathy and indifference now prevalent in certain quarters. Don't let them dampen your enthusiasm, but do counter with poise and understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Keep alert to job requirements, the opposition you will face, all likely contingencies. With such matters under control, you can move forward confidently — and with ease.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Day calls for team work. You can make fine advances, assure eventual recognition, if you cooperate with all and stress your innate progressiveness.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most imaginative and creative individuals in the zodiacal spectrum. You also have outstanding qualities of leadership and your personality is such that others follow you almost blindly. You are a "natural" for politics and statesmanship; can also become a tremendous influence through writings and lecturing. As with most Geminians, the stage is a wonderful outlet for your emotions, which can also be well expressed through music and painting. Highly adaptable, you feel at home in any part of the world, thus could excel in any career which involves traveling.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's official now. Producer Norman Lear will offer a second season of his hit "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" satire-and-soap opera series, still selling it on a syndicated, non-network basis.

There'd been some question whether his saga of life in Fernwood, Ohio, would return, as the five-show-a-week series had run its first season in the red — $1.2 million worth of red, by one estimate.

But Lear, in town this week on business, said the stations buying a second MH, MH season have been so willing to "escalate" the fees they formerly paid for the show that the fiscal outlook is rosy indeed.

He insisted he didn't know what the series would cost next season. But he said the new fees paid by purchasing stations are such that "we're pretty confident we'll make up the losses this year, be able to pay the escalations (higher salaries) of the actors — everyone deserves a raise and every show in television faces that each year — and we also hope to make a profit."

He said 45 stations already have signed up for a second "Hartman" season and that another 45 are negotiating to buy, all of them stations that carried the series this season.

"And there are new stations coming in, so we think more than 100 stations will be showing the program next fall," he added.

He said taping will begin in early August, the showings in early October.

Unlike the first season, in which there were 26 weeks of first-run episodes and 13 weeks of reruns, season No. 2 will serve up 39 weeks of new shows followed by a 13-week repeat cycle, Lear said.

He said actress Louise Lasser, 37, the deadpan star of the show, and all the other regulars on this season's episodes will be back next fall, with some new characters introduced to ease their workload.

Miss Lasser, who made headlines in May when arrested on a cocaine possession charge after a disturbance in a Beverly Hills, Calif., boutique, currently is in a six-month, court-ordered drug diversion program.

Diversion is a California drug education program in which criminal proceedings against first offenders are dropped if they successfully complete the program.

Lear, asked whether her arrest and participation in the program will have any effect on the "Hartman" production for next season, said "we don't anticipate any problems."

Last question: Any lingering complaints from stations about the occasionally controversial subject matter of this season's shows?

"No," Lear promptly replied. "I think it has passed over that precipice into an area — it seems to us of total acceptability."

If you like fine acting, watch Paul Winfield's portrayal of a courageous black minister-teacher tonight on CBS' "With All Deliberate Speed," a dramatization of a South Carolina school segregation case in 1947.

The one hour show is a fairly good, if compressed, retelling of a now-obscure legal fight that was partly responsible for the Supreme Court's historic 1954 decision that racial segregation in public schools is "inherently unequal" and thus unconstitutional.

PET OF THE WEEK — This male puppy is a tan and white part wire hair terrior. He is three months old and available at the Pickaway County Animal Shelter or by calling 474-3741 or 474-1395. The Pickaway County Humane Society reminds residents that the animal shelter is full of cats, kittens, dogs and puppies that need homes. Visit the shelter and adopt a pet.

Award Meeting Set By Cancer Society Unit

The Annual Awards and Dinner Meeting of the Pickaway County Unit of the American Cancer Society will be held on June 28 at Steele's Restaurant. A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the American Cancer Society are invited to attend. A member is anyone who has contributed $1 or more during the year. Anyone interested in attending the dinner is asked to contact the Unit office (474-3014) by June 23 for a reservation and information regarding the cost of the dinner.

The program for the evening will consist of summary reports of the unit's activities during the past year and the presentation of awards.

Bible School Scheduled In Stoutsville

The Fairview United Methodist Church of Stoutsville will hold Vacation Bible School next week, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

All children ages two through 11 are invited to attend.

A program is planned for 6 p.m. on June 25.

For further information, contact Mrs. Carolyn Holbrook, 474-1733.

Logan Elm FFA Holds Meeting

Thirty members and three guests took part in the first summer meeting of the Logan Elm FFA recently at Old Mans Cave.

David Rittinger, president, directed the meeting and Tracy Strous, secretary, recorded the minutes of the meeting. A motion to sell FFA calendars failed to pass.

Steve Bower, advisor, discussed the FFA Camp Washington D. C. trip and the Pickaway County and Ohio State Fairs.

The club's next meeting will be 7 p.m. July 13 at the Logan Elm High School Vocational Agricultural Building.

Airport Authority To Meet Friday

The Pickaway County Airport Authority will meet 7 a.m. Friday at the Colony House.

Over 4 million youths are members of the Boy Scouts of America.
